Nicaraguan "Democracy

The attempted assassination last week of Nicaragua's President Somoze and subsequent chaos into which that country was planged magnetized the eyes of freedom-loving people around the globe.

It is a little of the control of the considered for point on the Australia.

Somozo, who travels about his little oligarchy with a pistol stuck predominantly under his belt, declared an immediate state of siege (a form of martial law) and there began a wholesale arrest of political opponents, newspaper editors, and even a former president of the country.

Had this same thing occurred in our land of many free-doms, normal procedure would have demanded that the vice-president temporarily conduct the chief executive's duties. Not so in "democratic" Nicaragua. Just to keep things in the family, Somozo's two sons assumed complete control of every infinitesimal fact of the government.

I won't go into the rigors of my eighteen-month confine-ment, but what I'm trying to say is how much I appreciated and looked forward to receiving each copy of the SOUTHERN

ACCENT. ACCENT.

It meant a lot to me to keep in touch with the activities of the folks back at Southern Missionary College and certainly lessened the difficulties of my hospitalization.

Whenever J got low or had the blues I could jerk myself out of despate by recreading some of my old issues, so, thanks again to the SOUTHERN ACCENT for helping me keep in touch until I could once again resume my studies.

Politicking"

In a few more weeks the freshman class will meet to elect the people who will be its guides and leaders not only fo the academic year, but very possibly throughout many years to follow. In waiting for a period before conducting this all-important business, the freshmen have shown insight and wisdom far beyond that expected of those who are experiencing their first year in college and should be congentulated on their farsightedness.

Committees of "Misrepresentation"

However, it has come to the notice of the editors that there are some who simply cannot wait for these meerings to organ ize; they feel that they must take it upon themselves to act as H unofficial "nominaring committee" and pre-select their officer

Other than being most un-democratic, this system of government by any self-appointed group is against all principles of Christian education, and what is more, is pirifully unfair to the majority of their fellow-classmen who are not receiving adequate representation and who are quite willing MV to await the organizational class meeting.

"Fanatic Fealty

Still another problem is the fanatic fealty with which ome of the freshmen come armed to Southern Missionary College, prepared to defend to the very death their respective high-school or academies. Granted, we all have that certain feeling of nostulgia when we think of the fun we had in those "good old days," but we must remember that academy and high-school days are passed on the forever-turning wheel of time, and that we are in college now, a place for men and women and not boys and girls. A feeling of loyalty to our alma-maters is a respectable quality but our prime loyalty is to Southern Missionary College and let's not forget it.

Whether a man or woman is from Satchmo Academy or Podunk High doesn't have enough significance to enlighten a South African Zulu, but what is important is that person's capabilities to do the tremendous task which is ser before m. It doesn't matter a full of beans if he can throw a 40yard pass, or run the hundred-yard dash in record time; it doesn't matter if he or she can recite the Constitution of the ated States in French; it is insignificant that she is the best little cookie baker this side of the Mississippi

Accomplishments us. Capabilities

Instud of electing a person because of his or her physical soluble polices to generable to templifihments, let us examine the leadership potentialities of the make our decisions. accomplishments, let us examine the leadership potentialities and then make our decisions.

Perhaps in the past the importance of the offices of the freshman class have been taken too lightly; however, no elected office should be viewed with discredir, for the class must have adequate leadership. Leaders who are capable in every way, stable emotionally, and endowed with a certain degree of insight into the future are scarce. When one is discovered he should be utilized by his fellows to the betterment of humanity

We have complimented the freshman class on its wise decision to wait a few weeks before choosing their officers. We sinterely and earnestly hope that they will use as much wisdom in selecting their officers-employing all Christian and democratic means to do so.

Editorials To Vote Or Not To Vote

It is becoming well known that ignorance and disinteres in political issues and current affairs is widespread on the campuses of many colleges and universities in the United States. For too large a percentage of students on this campus share this uninformed condition.

There are two excuses which we have heard given recently for local indifference to voting in the coming national elec-tion: (1) "I has en't time to study the issues and the position of the candidates"—an admission of ignorance and lack of desire to become informed; and (2) "Doesn't the church say we shouldn't have anything to do with politics?"-a less forgivable example of negligence Clearly, unless those giving the first excuse can get a glimpse of the vital importance of knowing what is going on in their government and doing what they can about it, they will remain in their unconcerned state forever. A great deal is capably penned and voiced to arouse these passive members of our democracy, so we shall not attempt in this short

Come to Class. It Pays!

There is a new plan on trial in our academy this year. By having a good g.a. and very few absences a sudern may be excusted from six-week tests, senseter tests, and even final exams. This plan has been tried in several of our academies and has been fund worthly of trial in others. It furnishes the gudents with an incentive to good scholarship and class

This plan was tried by some of the teachers first period and the number of students excused from exams ran from 25 to 50 per cent on the average.

The perfect attendance list and honor roll this year are footbut comparable to last year, but Professor Higgins says "Daily attendance is greatly improved and the general trend is accepted as year.

Cut Passing Period Suggested

Many members of the student body are a bir rushed for time during the mon hour. It is possible that this could be temedied by shortening the length of the passing period between classes. Not much can be accomplished during the passing period and many of its minutes seem to be time wasted.

On the other hand, some of the students and teachers have considerable ground to cover between classes. Next saue the Opinion Poll will ask students and teachers for comments on this subject. For your enlightenment: By reducing the passing period to seven minutes, we could be dismissed from chapel at 12105; by cutting it to five minutes, we would

We Propose --

Dear Student-Here follows a little food for thought. We would like for you to think about our proposition, then talk about it, then arrive at your own conclusions. Your ideas published in the opinion poll of the next ACCENT.

IOEA-Is it feasible to suppose that the students of Southern Missionary College could have a separare church service from the community? Now that the chapel is enlarged the problem of not enough toom has vanished into thin air.

Many of the members of your faculty favor such a move. for they feel that in a separate church service the sermon could be more on a collegiate level, and the speaker would not face the task of gearing a sermon to two groups. Other colleges and academies have adopted this plan, and it appears to have worked very successfully.

If you students want a separate service, we feel that there will be such. If you do not want it, of course there will not he such a move

So-give us your opinion-we'd like to hear it.

You Are a S.D.A. Atheist!

From all appearances many SMC collegians are tank atheists. They are not themselves aware of it, but their ons beerny their disregard of and unbelief in God.

To what appearances do we refer? The attitudes of obvious disrespect for the invisible King they supposedly gather to worship on Sabbath and other times of the week.

But how can a person who is irreverent be classed as an atheist? An atheist is "one who denies the existence of God," And closely related to him are people who believe in God's existence who dishonor him also. It is possible that one may realize God's existence without being respectful and reverent in His presence, but the line between distegard or disrespect and unchlief is very fine.

Those who are atherstic in their irreverence are simply inconsistent in their practice of belief. They do not defiantly arow unbelief but are easily drifting with the tide THE and the current of the spirit of the age.

One's irreverent attitude in the presence of God is a public index to a lack of personal contact with God. A sense of awe and reverence in His invisible presence can be obtained only by knowing Him day by day through prayer and the study of His Word

We would encourage the seemingly atheixtic irreverent to a daily study of God's Word if they would contribute to a more reverent church service at SMC.

Shame on You

Seventy-five per tent of the student body at Southern Missionary College should be ashamed of themselves. The other 25 per cent should be ashamed of the 75 per cent.

Why? Just recently, the various faculty divisions went to a lot of work so that we could spend a relaxing, enjoyable evening with ner school friends. Our faculty did a splendid job, too-hilanous games, delicious cookies, etc.

But you, you 75 per cent who didn't have enough selfrespect to accept their invitation didn't go. You would have gone to a cheap motion picture gladly, but you wouldn't attend a more enjoyable party into which a lot of people put a great deal of work. You ought to be ashamed of your-selves, but chances are that most of you don't have enough Registrar Mrs. Gardner Doesn't Have sense to be ashamed. So, stand there in your simple ignorance and laugh if you will, but don't blame anyone but yourself if To Be Crazy For Her Work; But It Helps the lyceum committee gets fed up with your despicable lack

Let's Do Better After Exams Girls Busy With

As I am writing this students are beginning to pre-paire for first semester exams, and since examinations are on everybody's mind. Pre-decided to say something about them. We have already had two sets of six-weeks tests. After the first ones some decided that they must make better grades, but before long they were back in the same old partern. And by the time six-week tests came around the second time, they again woke up to the fact that they must do better. Still some went back to the old ways.

This reminds me of something. In the morning when the alarm clock rings some people jump right up. But this the alarm crock rings some people jump right up. Dut this is the way with others: they hear it ring, roll over, turn it off, and just lie there. Someone may rell them its time to get up, but they still stay thete. All of a sudden, they realize that it's later than they think and up they jump.

Let's let the semester exams be our jumping point if we haven't jumped before.

No One Is Indispensable

Often people get the mistaken idea that some tively indispensable and no one else could take his place. This is definitely a gross error, but on a lesser scale we seem to put this theory into use.

Jost because certain people hold places of responsibility does not infer that no one else is capable of doing as good a job on a lesser project

This is not meant to condemn our leaders-we need them have faith in them, or we would not follow their leadership. However, there is a trend for every function to be run by the same people. There are others who would be willing and happy to be a vital part of their school is given a chance

Not that we advocate taking the "lime-light" from any one, but it does seem ridiculous that capable, willing students are often neglected, while the job is done by someone who really has so many other activities that he does not have the time to devote to it that the other person would have. Too often a school is run by a slim minority who make the rules and do most of the work; while the majority never

It would seem to be the duty of the minority who are leaders to implement democracy and give the majority an opportunity to help out and definitely be a part of their

After all, no one of us is indispensable!

Bills Help Students

The program of our educational system is one of the most pressing of our time. It is because of this fact that Senator J. W. Fulbright has introduced into congress again this year two bills (see page one) which would help to aid the pursuants of higher education. These bills are merely another method of providing an avenue for students toward the gnals they seek through adequate educational oppor-

SA Serves Students

In a day and age in which "man lays waste his powers" in mple pursuit of gain, it is a faith-restoring act when man elps his fellow man in need. When the Student Association took up the cause of a ellow student's dire need, it displayed its greatest value or of service.

that of Service.

College students are by no means to be considered wealthy, and when in one appeal a large portion of a goal is eached, it shows that man has not forgotten that "it is more blessed to give..." and in the final analysis the humble act of giving is the most ennobling practice that man can do.

Editorial:

College Year Brings Rewards

A year at college is an experience to be long remembered. As school closes most of us can look back and say, "It's been great. It's been fun." Some things we must admit; we got just what we looked for-we learned only what we studie -we achieved only what we attempted.

He who looked for the good, he who made and not waited for the breaks, he who put his whole self into college life-got what he came for.

So many things go together to make a successful, enjoyable college year.

The classes: Some we took because we wanted to, others the crasses: some we took pecause we wanted to, others because they were required. We griped about their required assignments, sometimes crammed for them; but got, if we applied ourselves, something out of them all.

The social occasions: No doubt about it-you gals looked aper on Saturday nights. You guys who debated so long efore asking for that date, aren't you glad you finally did?

Our teachers: We appreciate your hard work, your sin-cerity, your devotion. We learned from you in the classroom, but not only there. Your influence will be felt in our lives, and transplanted to others till the end of time.

The sports: Many of us enjoyed the diversion of the ball games whether as participants or spectators. Ball field and gymnasium: you've seen a lot of some of us, haven't you? Our friends. We find it hardest to say good-bye to you

We'll see you again someday, though; if not in this world, in the earth made new.

The Sabbath meetings: We will long remember those per services. Remember the night you stood up to show that you wanted to follow Christ all the way? It was an important decision, and it made you feel good all over.

Then there are so many other things we remember-those so called little things that are actually pretty big when you thumb through the Southern Memories and notice them mentioned by your various classmates.

we learned, sometimes the hard way.

We are sorry to see some go, but are proud of our seniors, going out to represent their college and their faith.

Best to you, seniors of 1957. We will follow you in a year, or two, or three. God be with you 'til we meet again, and we can relive our time spent here with, "It was great, wasn't it? It was fun."
